November 6 program

1915 Panama-Pacific International Exposition book author will present

Author Laura Ackley (San Francisco's Jewel City: The Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915) will take the November 6 PHS audience on a whirlwind tour of the fair from its original concept in 1904 through its development and all the way to its gala opening in February 1915.

We'll peek inside the gorgeous exhibit palaces for a look at just a few of the wonders therein, and finish with some of the attractions on the Joy Zone, the PPIE's midway.

Laura will show dozens of amazing photos, lantern slides, postcards, souvenirs, and panoramas.

2015 marks the centennial year of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, when host city San Francisco emerged from the ashes of an earthquake and fire as a center of beauty and progress.

As always, the program will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in Conference Rooms 2A and 2B of the Kaiser Permanente Medical Office Building, 1301 Pinole Valley Road. Refreshments will be served.

“BRING HERCULES HOME” FUNDRAISING EFFORT LAUNCHED

Hercules has a unique history as a company town for the California Powder Works, later the Hercules Powder Works, which was located here and which incorporated the community in 1900. The city was named after the company's marquee product — Hercules Black Powder.

In 1945 or so, the Hercules Powder Works commissioned renowned American sculptor Paul Manship to create two bronze statues of Hercules to commemorate the company's role in WWII.

While the two original pieces are unavailable, the city has been provided with an opportunity to acquire, restore, and transport a posthumous cast of the Paul Manship Bronze Sculpture of Hercules originally commissioned by the Hercules Powder Works.

The sculpture will be on public display in Hercules City Hall and will ultimately be incorporated into the planned Hercules Regional Intermodal Transportation Center, which will be located on part of the original powder works site, to forever greet those arriving and departing from Hercules.

Using a crowdfunding platform for public agencies called Citizinvestor, the City of Hercules has launched an effort to raise $10,800 to Bring Hercules Home. Those who would like to make a donation can do so by visiting: www.Citizinvestor.com/projects/bring-hercules-home.

Posthumous cast of Hercules originally commissioned from renowned American artist Paul Manship by the Hercules Powder Company.

Baum's program will explore information she discovered while doing research for a play entitled "HICK: A Love Story – the Romance of Lenora Hickok & Eleanor Roosevelt."

Hick was the most famous woman journalist of her day and the first woman to have a byline on the front page of The New York Times. She met Eleanor Roosevelt during FDR's first presidential campaign in 1932 and was assigned to cover her.

Their love affair lasted several years. Their friendship lasted Roosevelt's lifetime. Hick helped Roosevelt become an outspoken, media-savvy activist for democracy and human rights — one of the greatest women of the 20th century.

Since not all historians agree about the nature of the relationship between the First Lady and the reporter, the playwright did her own primary
